

Appendix D: Dynamic Modeling results for various configurations of the Del Mar Mooring

These results show the effects of two sea states (moderate and extreme) on various configurations of the mooring design. The most significant difference in the results is caused by the distribution of wet-weight between the pig weight and the ESP assembly.